INTRODUCTION

Language No let go from life man, proven from its use in everyday conversation. In any activity, humans always use Language, like Study, playing, gathering, And and so on. It could be said that without language, human interaction would be difficult. This clearly demonstrates the role of language in enabling humans to communicate and convey messages to one another. Without language, humans would struggle to convey their thoughts. "Without language, people cannot carry out their responsibilities fully" (Pateda, 2015:6).

As a tool for communication and interaction, language must be understood correctly by both the speaker and the interlocutor to avoid misunderstandings. In every communication, humans directly convey information, including thoughts, ideas, feelings, and emotions. Communication occurs when the speaker clearly conveys their meaning to the interlocutor so that they can be understood. When this occurs, communication occurs between the speaker and the interlocutor using a medium called language (Nurdin, Sembiring, Phongsavath, Rahmawati, & Hutabarat, 2022). Language can it is said as tool so that man Can each other connected one and the same other. "Language is tool Which used For form thought as well as feelings, desires, and actions, tools used to influence and influenced" Syamsuddin (in Deviation, (2017:230). As speaker And Interlocutors should understand all the concepts in language.

One must understand the basic principles of language and understand the ethics and impressions of language to avoid conflict in everyday communication. Because language can also... cause opinion. Misunderstanding That Can just from intonation from what is said. The meaning contained may not be understood and comprehended by the conversation partner (Masni & Hutabarat, 2019).

Language need We learn more deep so that communication Which happen can be implemented like Which We Want to. Communication is Distribution something a certain message or intention to the interlocutor. Based on the function of language as a medium of communication and interaction. "Based on the function of language, it has several function that is function expressive, function directive, function informational, metalingual function, interactional function, contextual function and poetic function" (Rani, 2004).

Based on the functions of language use above, it's clear that when we speak, we must convey what we want to convey according to the context. "The field that studies language and its context is called pragmatics" (Nuramila, 2020:1). Pragmatics is closely related to speech acts. Speech acts is something action man in do narrative through words. An utterance uttered by a speaker must have a specific purpose. Every utterance that is spoken must have a meaning that must be understood by the speaker (Phongsavath, Andriani, & Saputra Hutabarat, 2022).

Speech acts are often viewed in terms of their meaning and how they are uttered. Researchers have observed that speech acts are important to study. Due to the action speech not enough understood by every person. On sentence " Already time "Dzuhur prayer " can have different meanings in different situations, conditions, and for each person. Can So speaker only telling you moment This time prayer or invite to prayer. Speech Which spoken by speaker often time misinterpreted by the listener. Politeness in speaking is necessary, and the conversation partner must also respond politely (Masni, Rahima, & Hutabarat, 2021).

Speech acts can occur in any situation. Speech acts involve two people, the speaker and the interlocutor, and can occur in various activities and fields, such as education, entertainment, and as a means of conveying Islamic messages, such as lectures. Lectures broadcast on television can convey one-way oral communication. Speech acts in oral communication, especially lectures, significantly determine whether or not the speech delivered has an impact on the interlocutor (listener). What is conveyed? speaker Can just No understood, No interesting And boring for the speech partner (listener) (Suratno & Hutabarat, 2018).

In lecture Certain speaker hope What Which delivered understood by the speech partner. However, if we hear a lecture, and the speech acts delivered by the speaker are impolite and not culturally appropriate existing, then it will be a problem for the understanding and acceptance of the content of the lecture. For example, a lecture which contains hatred and resentment towards a religion (Dacholfany, Ikhwan, Budiman, & Hutabarat, 2024).

LITERATURE REVIEW

Microhydro power generation is the generation of electricity generated by a DC or AC electric generator. Microhydro comes from the word micro which means small and hydro means water, the overall meaning is the generation of small power electricity driven by water power. Large water power from small rivers or dammed lakes and then from a certain height and having the appropriate discharge will drive the turbine connected to the electric generator (Halal, Declare, Pratiwi, & Hutabarat, 2024).

The generator used for microhydro is designed to be easy to operate and maintain, designed to support safety, but electrical equipment will be dangerous if not used properly. Several points from this guideline, the instructions show things that must be considered and must be followed as shown below (Suratno, Saputra Hutabarat, & Sari, 2018).

Microhydro power plants in principle utilize the difference in height and the amount of water discharge per second in the irrigation water flow, river or waterfall. This water flow will rotate the turbine shaft so as to produce mechanical energy. This energy then drives the generator and produces electrical energy (Rosmiati, 2016).
